Foreword

Since the breakout of financial crisis, many countries released stimulus package in order to realize economic recovery but the financial policy turned from extreme tight to loose. The Impact from systematic risks on cotton textile prices increased sharply, which was even bigger than that from fundamentals of the industry. Though many countries have not got rid of the influence of economic crisis, big risks temporarily release and fundamentals become dominant position again.

There is big concern in fundamentals of cotton textile industry. Under interaction of numerous market factors and non-market factors, the performance of cotton price is rather abnormal as the spread between domestic and foreign cotton is incredible large and cotton textile industry faces unprecedented survival pressure. What changes will occur in cotton policy? How will cotton textile industry survive? How does apparel market view changes of cotton textile raw materials?

Viscose staple fiber has been regarded as popular star in cotton textile raw materials but why did the price keep falling in 2012? What will happen unexpectedly in 2013? The capacity of dissolving pulp keeps expanding in past two years, what is the current market pattern? What impact will anti-dumping pose on the industry? What is the development trend?

www.ccfgroup.com, www.ccf.com.cn and www.tteb.com will host 7th China Hangzhou Viscose Industry Forum & 2013 China Cotton Textile Raw Materials Summit during May 15-17, 2013.
